Parents & Transition

Now that your child is a teenager and nearing the time when he or she will leave specialized services of the school system and enter the adult community, you and your child should begin preparing for the transition. All young people face the challenge of making a number of choices about careers, living arrangements, social life, and vocational goals. For individuals with disabilities, these important decisions are frequently complicated by the need to deal with the community acceptance of persons with disabilities, and the need to become familiar with an array of services that are designed to assist adults with disabilities.

As the parents of a child with disabilities you are probably familiar with the services in the school system and other services mandated under Public Law 94-142. As you think about your child leaving school, you need to be aware that your child will be entering a different system of services which do not have the set of guarantees that are part of the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA). Adult services have different entrance requirements and methods of operation, depending on the services your son or daughter will be seeking. It is very important for you as a parent to learn about the adult services alternatives and what you can expect to obtain for your child.

Eligibility for adult services differs from that used in public education

Who qualifies for what?

Special education services in the public school system are provided for children who have a disability in one of the following areas: (TBI) Traumatic Brain Injury, deaf, deaf-blind, hard of hearing, cognitively delayed, orthopedically impaired, other health impaired, seriously emotionally disturbed, specific learning disability, speech impaired, and visually impaired.

Adult services do not use the same classification system or eligibility standards mandated for individuals of school age. For specific information about your child's disability and the services for which he or she is likely to be eligible, talk with his/her special education or resource case manager. The teacher probably has some ideas about what adult services would be the most appropriate for your child, or they can refer you to specific individuals in our service system who can help you.

The rest of this manual will give you some basic information about the Disability Services Division and the services available in the Helena area. Do not hesitate to call or visit with the representatives from these services identified in the following pages. There are many knowledgeable people who are ready and willing to assist you and your child in the transition.

Department of Public Health and Human Services

Most adult services available to persons with disabilities are funded by the Developmental Disabilities Program (DDP) and Montana Vocational Rehabilitation, also known as “Voc-Rehab” or “VR.” Both of these are a part of the larger state agency Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS).

Developmental Services Division

In July 2009, the Disability Services Division (DSD) of the Montana Department of Public Health and Human Services (DPHHS) was restructured under the Medicaid and Health Services Branch of DPHHS. In January 2010, the name was changed to Developmental Services Division.

Services are now provided through two primary programs: the Developmental Disabilities Program and the Children’s Mental Health Bureau.

The Developmental Disabilities Program contracts with private, non-profit corporations to provide services across the lifespan for individuals who have developmental disabilities and their families. The focus of the program is to tailor care to the individual and provide it in as natural environment as possible.

The Montana Developmental Center is administered by the Developmental Disabilities Program and is the State’s only residential facility for individuals with developmental disabilities that provides 24-hour care for those with the most severe behaviors or severe self help deficits.

Developmental Disabilities Program

Our mission statement is:

"The Developmental Disabilities Program supports choices and opportunities for people with developmental disabilities in their communities."

Over the years, our view of people with disabilities and the help society offers to these individuals and their families has changed dramatically from one of paternal institutionalization to one of supported self-determination.

An emphasis on human dignity and a conviction that each person is unique and capable of growth are the cornerstone beliefs of Montana's Developmental Disabilities Program. But developmental disabilities such as mental retardation, cerebral palsy, epilepsy and autism place significant obstacles in the way of individual growth and development. Montana's focus for providing services to persons with developmental disabilities calls for self-determination and individual participation in life's decisions about where to work, how to play, and where to live. It also calls for community settings and integration with non-disabled people. These changes in service philosophy are a result of many factors including a growing concern for the rights of individuals, the effectiveness of advocacy groups, and the notable successes of people with developmental disabilities living and working in Montana's communities.

Disability Rights Montana

Disability Rights Montana protects and advocates for the human, legal and civil rights of Montanans with disabilities while advancing dignity, equality and self-determination.

Disability Rights Montana was established in 1977 and is a civil rights organization protecting the human, civil and legal rights of Montanans with disabilities through legally-based advocacy. Each state and territory is mandated by law to have a designated independent Protection and Advocacy (P&A) system for people with disabilities. Disability Rights Montana is Montana's protection and advocacy system.

Disability Rights Montana provides:

Information and Referral: We provide information regarding the rights of people with disabilities and provide suggestions on how to handle their situation. We offer referrals to other organizations or programs when we are not able to resolve their concerns.

Individual Advocacy: We can negotiate on an individual's behalf to resolve problems such as denial of services, discrimination, abuse and neglect, or we can support their own self-advocacy efforts.

Legal Representation: We provide legal representation to people and groups who are eligible for our services if their issues fall within our program area priorities. Our legal staff may also give technical assistance to private attorneys working on disability issues.

Systems Advocacy: In collaboration with others, we work for systemic changes that affect people with disabilities, in order to improve their quality of life.

Education and Training: We educate others across the state about the legal rights of people with disabilities through presentations to groups and organizations, participation on committees and task forces, technical assistance and educational booklets. Our staff is experienced in many disability-related areas ranging from the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), the Montana Human Rights Act, The Rehabilitation Act, the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), to self-advocacy, and disability awareness and etiquette.

What is PABSS? The Protection and Advocacy for Beneficiaries of Social Security (PABSS) program was established under the Ticket to Work and Work Incentives Improvement Act (TWWIIA) of 1999. The purpose of this program, which is funded by the Social Security Administration (SSA), is to protect the legal rights of a Social Security beneficiary in their efforts to work. The PABSS program can help with:

- Access to and disputes with community service providers
- Special education and transition
- Health care
- Disability benefits and work incentives
- Rights and conditions of employment
- Vocational rehabilitation and preparation
- Rights, responsibilities and reasonable accommodations under the ADA
- Wage and hour issues
- Transportation
- Housing
- Assistance removing barriers to a beneficiary's obtaining or returning to work

What is CAP? The Client Assistance Program was set up by the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 to protect the rights of individuals. The Rehabilitation Act sets the rules regarding rights and responsibilities and decides who can get rehabilitation services. Agencies in Montana that receive federal money through the Rehabilitation Acts are the programs for which CAP can provide services. These programs include Montana Vocational Rehabilitation, four independent living centers, and any services under the Rehabilitation Act.

The Client Assistance Program (CAP) is a Disability Rights Montana program that helps people with disabilities who have concerns about agencies in Montana that provide vocational rehabilitation or independent living services. The type of help provided may be information and referral, advice and counseling, mediation and negotiation, advocacy, representation in an administrative appeal, or legal services. The Client Assistance Program can help with:

- Information about agencies and program that help people with disabilities
- Information about rehabilitation agencies and independent living programs and how to get services from them
- Solve programs between rehabilitation agencies and their clients
- Represents clients during an appeal process
- Represents clients of rehabilitation agencies in court
- Teaches people how to become their own advocate. This is one of CAP's most important services.

How to request assistance: To get help from Disability Rights Montana, call and talk with one of our advocates. You can also fill out a Request for Service form on our website. Our office is open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Who Are We?

PLUK is a private, nonprofit organization formed in 1984 by parents of children with special needs in the state of Montana for the purpose of information, support, training and assistance to aid their children at home, school and as adults.

PLUK is an organization of parents and other caring individuals who serve families and individuals with disabilities of any age and at no cost.

PLUK was founded by parents who felt strongly that parents of children with disabilities need to band together to give each other information and support. It seemed foolish for each new parent to try to learn all over again what other parents already know and would willingly share. It also seemed important for parents to lend each other support because of the healing that takes place when people who share a common problem can work together to find solutions.

We are people with disabilities, parents, professionals, relatives, and friends who want to ensure that persons with disabilities participate in the community and have access to high quality educational, medical and rehabilitation services.

We are members of a statewide group that supports families in their desire to help people with disabilities lead productive lives.

What We Do

We become as well informed as possible about best practices in the fields of education, medicine, the law, human services, rehabilitation and technology so that we can insure that our family members and friends with disabilities have access to high quality services.

We willingly share information and emotional support with each other so that together we are stronger in our efforts to meet the challenges of disabilities and illnesses.

Values We Share

- Full integration and participation of children and adults with disabilities at school, work, and in the community.
- Support for families so that they can nurture their children in the home.
- Empowerment of families and individuals with disabilities to make decisions about their lives.
- Individualization of services to meet the unique needs of individuals with disabilities.
- Access for persons with disabilities to education and technology needed to participate fully in community life.
- Age appropriate activities for children and adults with disabilities.
- High expectations for individuals who are challenged by disability or illness.
- Collaborative efforts among parents, professionals and people with disabilities.
- Use of language about people with disabilities which is respectful and recognizes their dignity and rights as full citizens.

Where are we?

The PLUK office, library and computer lab are located on 32nd street in downtown Billings.

We also have a local PLUK family support consultant: Diana Tavary

Contact Us!

We may be contacted by phone, TDD, fax, e-mail and in person. We also have a network of family support consultants in most of the major cities in the state serving all remote areas.

Spring Meadow Resources

Spring Meadow Resources, Inc., formerly known as Tri-County D.D. Inc., began providing services to adults with developmental disabilities in the Helena area in 1975.

Growing from a two person company in 1975 to its' current status of approximately 100 employees and about the same number of adults in its' services, Spring Meadow Resources is one of the largest non-profit 501(3)(c) companies in the state of Montana. Spring Meadow Resources owns and operates all but one of its' residential facilities. That one is owned by another non-profit company who came to Spring Meadow Resources asking us to operate a home under our licensing and contracts.

Spring Meadow Resources provides residential services through several different residential facilities. Most are named after the street on which they are located. These include Brass Apartments offering seven accessible apartments to higher functioning individuals who live on their own with minor assistance in supported living services, Hudson—a home for senior adults with medical issues, Lake—a home for six adults with more intensive needs, Motor—a home for eight ambulatory adults, Oregon—an eight resident home and an attached rental, Tamarack—serving eight seniors, and Waukesha which houses a home serving adults and four apartments for adults, all of whom work in the community.

Spring Meadow Resources offers supported living services to those adults who live in their own homes in the community, but need assistance to remain in their homes. This assistance may be in the form of transportation to SMR events, assistance with housework, cooking, banking, medication administration, and other day-to-day living skills.

The Spring Meadow Resources' Day Program, informally known as CAP (Creative Activities Program), has at least thirty-five adults in the program. Those attending usually are retired, unable to work, or do not wish to work. SMR changed it from a senior program to an open to all ages program as well. 18 years and up. Activities in the community and at the Day Program provide purpose and interest to those who participate in this weekday program. They are open from 8am-3pm for adults needing services. They have many activities such as sewing club, history class, health lessons, music, arts and crafts, gardening and fishing on our own private handicap accessible fishing pond located behind the main office.

Recreation is a big part of Spring Meadow Resources. Situated on approximately 30+ acres, the main office and day program operate here. The rear of the property is a large meadow bounded by a creek to the west. An acre-sized pond offers boating, fishing, and other water focused activities. The Pond area has campsites for tents and wheeled units, picnic tables, a golf course, potable water and power, and an accessible portapotty during the warmer months. Not only do those we serve use the Pond, but other service providers use the facilities for their own clients. Spring Meadow Resources leads recreation efforts in out-of-town and out-of-state vacations as well. Clients and direct care staff have traveled to Hawaii, the Oregon coast, Yellowstone, and other recreation destinations in the past year.

Spring Meadow Resources group homes are licensed annually through inspections and recommendations for improvement through various local, county, and state regulations. We contract annually for services with DPHHS through the Developmental Disability Division.

University of Montana Helena College of Technology (UM-Helena)

The University of Montana Helena College of Technology (UM-Helena) is a comprehensive two-year college in Montana offering a variety of certificates and degrees. In addition to technical degrees, the college offers Associate of Arts and Associate of Science transfer degrees.

Prospective students need to have finished high school or have obtained their GED to apply to the college. There is helpful admissions and financial aid information located on the college's web site, www.umhelena.edu. Students with disabilities should contact the Director of Disability Services if they are interested in receiving any accommodations while they are at the college. Documentation will support the student's request for accommodations, and the student may find that accommodations at the college level differ a bit from what they received in high school. The college strives to provide access to both the physical facilities as well as the academic programs offered by the school.

Students need to take a COMPASS test for math and English placement at UM-Helena or present ACT/SAT scores or the MUSWA (Montana University System Writing Assessment) for placement. Transfer credits for math and English may also be accepted so that placement scores are not necessary.

For information about disability services, students may call:

Director of Disability Services
Cindy Yarberry
444-6897

or visit her web page at <http://umhelenahelena.edu/current/disability/default.aspx> for more information. The sooner the student begins the process of seeking accommodations before school begins, the easier the transition into college.
