Career Pathway Exploration

Helena ALC students focused on career exploration this month. Using the Montana Career Information System (MCIS), they evaluated how their own interests match up with a variety of career paths. Students use this information to plan for their futures and to narrow in on courses of study that best help them meet their career goals. MCIS shows students how the things they're already interested in align with career tasks they may not have previously considered. This program may also affirm students' existing career goals and show them what steps they must take to turn those goals into reality. Many of our students left this exercise energized and with renewed drive to realize their dreams.
